Loughlin's juniors will escort their favorite female acquaintances to the annual Junior Prom, Wednesday, April 5. One-hundred and forty couples will be present for an evening of dancing in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Granada.

Program To Include Choosing of a Queen

Similar to last year's program, the prom will be a semi-formal affair and will begin at 8 p.m. with an address by the principal, Brother Stephen. This will be followed by the presentation of the princesses and the choosing of a queen. Dancing will continue until midnight. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

Last minute prom preparations are discussed by Brother Denis and the committee in charge of the affair.

The seating is arranged so that there will be five couples at each table. Music is to be provided by the Suburbans, an eight piece band. The young ladies will receive favors in the form of Loughlin Lions. Mr. and Mrs. Christopher J. O'Toole will be present as official chaperones and each Junior class teacher has been invited to attend.

Committee Consists of Class Presidents

Providing for the organization of the prom, is a committee composed of the presidents of all the Junior Classes. Stephen Cardos, 317, has been acting as chairman of this committee.

Glee Club Enters Competitions Efforts Gain Excellent Rating

Renditions of Cesar Franck's "Psalm 150" and Marc Antoine Carpentier's "Laudate Dominum" earned for Loughlin's Glee Club a rating of Excellent in the Fourth Annual Catholic High School Glee Club Festival. The contest was conducted Sunday afternoon, March 5, at the Walt Whitman Auditorium of Brooklyn College.

In addition to Loughlin, nine other schools were represented in the CYO sponsored contest. Some of the competitors included the glee clubs of Xaverian High School, The Mary Louis Academy, St. Michael's Commercial and St. Pascal Baylon. The contest was judged by Mr. Charles Previn, director of the Easter Show at Radio City Music Hall.

and by Mr. Gerhard Pechner, the leading bass baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Association. As a result of the judging, competitors are placed in one of three classifications: Outstanding, Excellent and Good.

The Glee Club, which consists of approximately 110 members, is directed by Brother Basilian. Brother Kevin is its moderator.

Loughlin's songmen also received a status of excellent in the Second Annual "Festival of Glee Clubs" held at Xaverian High School, Sunday afternoon, March 12. The Glee Club was in competition with six other schools including St. Agnes Academy, St. John's Prep and Fontbonne Hall.

An Easter Message

That the peace and joy of the Resurrected Christ be yours now and always, men of Loughlin, is the fond wish of myself and the Faculty for you and your wonderful parents.

It was following His resurrection that Christ commissioned His followers "to go, teach all nations." Through His Apostles and Disciples He intended that you at Loughlin and all Catholics carry the Message of the Resurrection to all men—even to the fellow who has his locker next to you here in school. This command did not limit itself to foreign missionaries. It was meant for each of you, personally, here and now, to influence everyone with whom you deal to lead a Christlike life. In this way you are to spread the fruits of the Resurrection; viz, Peace and Joy.

But many young men—even of Loughlin—today are not obeying Christ's command. Instead of influencing, some of you are being influenced. Instead of saving others, some of you are losing yourselves. Instead of making the world Catholic, the world is making some of you pagan. Actually, in many cases today some of you are the leaven of the world gone sour.

Can some of you be bearers of peace and joy in the world if you purchase dirty literature from the nearby drugstore or candy store? Can some of you say you are leaven not gone sour when you write dirty expressions on subway advertisements? Haven't some of you been influenced when you dress like the modern hoodlum or the current beatnik? If your tongue is a foul tongue, how can some of you say you are a leaven for peace and joy in the world? If some of you are not seen regularly in the Confession line and at the Communion rail in your parish how can you say you are fulfilling Christ's command to go and teach?

It is time that Catholic High School and College students and especially some of you, Loughlin men, look to yourselves to see if you are a leaven of Peace and Joy that is permeating the mass of society, or are you a leaven gone sour bringing forth hate and wickedness. If Christ met up with you on the "road" to Emmaus, would He be able to congratulate you because you are spreading His Joy and Peace in the world by the way you influence the fellows on your block in your dress, your reading, your conversation and your social life? Let us increase the Joy and Peace of Easter in the world always by all of us spreading, so to speak, the mind of the Risen Christ wherever we may find ourselves.

Jamesonian Earns First Place Status Editors Conduct Journalism Course

by ROBERT KELLY

In the course of the past month, the Jamesonian has acquired two citations, conducted a journalism course, and dispatched representatives to four press conferences and a guided tour of the Herald Tribune building.

The thirty-seventh annual convention of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association

tion took place at Columbia University, March 9, 10, and 11. This is an assembly for the editors and faculty advisers of student newspapers, magazines, and yearbooks. Professional journalists and outstanding members of the school publication field delivered talks and offered advice designed to meet the needs of the student press.

Jamesonian Receives First Place Rating

The twofold purpose of the convention is to instruct high school journalists and supply a forum enabling exchange of ideas, methods, and techniques. In conjunction with this, the CSPA offers a publication rating service. For the fourteenth consecutive year, the Jamesonian was rated as a first class publication.

Over the three day duration, fifteen Loughlinites and the moderator, Brother Christopher Charles, attended. Editor-in-chief Jack Loiello spoke on "Editor-Adviser-Staff Relations" at the Thursday, March 9, Round Table meeting. The convention terminated with a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Saturday, March 11.

Five Loughlin juniors attended a press workshop for high school journalists sponsored by the Maryknoll Fathers, at Maryknoll, New York, February 25, 1961. This program was the first of an annual series and was conceived to furnish an opportunity to discuss the role of high school editors in fostering informed and responsible Catholic youth.

The subject of the first lecture was "A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever." This was an introduction into the science of the beautiful, and an explanation of beauty, truth, and goodness in art and nature. The second lecture dealt with "The Glory That Was Greece."

The club will meet every Wednesday to hear illustrated discussions by noted lecturers. Membership is open to all students with inquiring minds who wish to join. The club also hopes to procure student tickets to plays, operas and ballets, and to visit museums and exhibits.

Merv Griffin's weekly show, "The Saturday Prom", played host to thirty Loughlinites and their dates March 11. The nationally televised show was presented over WNBC from 5:30 to 6:00 p.m.

Students Dance on T.V.

Approximately twenty - nine students attended the journalism course conducted during February. With twelve students dropping out, seventeen diplomas were distributed to successful graduates on Friday, March 3. The two week course consisted of daily meetings of twenty minutes duration.

"He Is Risen . . ."

The heavens thundered . . . the earth trembled . . . the curtain in the temple was rent . . . the guards about the tomb quaked and fell . . . all before the awesome majesty of the resurrected Christ. These violent happenings and this opening of the tomb marked the cementing of God's new covenant with mankind. From hence, a new way to salvation was opened, the way of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Church teaches us that Christ, all power, all love, and all charity, rose to open the gates of heaven for mankind. In His charity and love, He will forgive the truly penitent their sins and admit them to the bliss of heaven.

But we know that Christ will return again in all His glory to resurrect our bodies in order that they may share in our eternal destinies. We know that, on that last day, we will each be summoned to prove our worthiness of the Death and Resurrection of Our Lord.

Let us, therefore, resolve to make a sincere Easter confession soon, if we have not already done so, to receive the Host of Hosts, to participate in the gift denied even to the thrones and majesties and choirs of angels, to commence preparations for that awful day of days when He will be revealed to us in all His splendor.

Higher Education

Recently, a great furor has been aroused over the proposed bill of the Federal Government which would grant every high school student some aid according to his financial need to be used toward the completion of a college career in any college of his choice. There are many who would smother this bill under one pretext or another, but whose actual aim is to strike out at the Catholic Church. Since many private colleges in the country are Catholic institutions, these people reason that a great deal of this money would go to Catholic schools, and, being of biased minds, they would act against this bill.

However, these narrow-minded individuals should realize that the money helps the student; it is not designated to aid the Catholic Church. If the individual student desires to acquire his education at a Catholic institution, he should be free to use his aid at a Catholic institution.

Therefore, it is our responsibility, both as Catholic students of today and tomorrow's family men, to urge the passage of this legislation by writing, as the administration has suggested, to our senators, representatives, and even the president; by reminding our parents to do likewise; and by promulgating well-informed views on the subject.

Loughlin Demolition Planned For 1962

A bill providing for the razing of Bishop Loughlin and its environs in 1962 was passed last week by the New York State Legislature, by a vote of 78-72. The purpose of this move is to provide room for a low-rent housing project.

There has been much protest from the Diocesan Chancery concerning the demolition, citing Loughlin's great performances in the past and the necessity of re-locating its student body of 1,851.

Administration Protests

Brother B. Stephen, provided with a growing list of supporters, has launched a vigorous campaign to save this revered building and to preserve the St. James-Bishop Loughlin tradition for four generations. He has penned many letters, accompanied by the signatures of Averill Harrigan and Harry S. Truban, to the State Senate and Assembly, to Governor Rocco Nelson-feller and even to politicians in Washington, D.C.

The governor replied stating that he could not evaluate the situation until April Fools' Day.

Loughlin Relives Its Past

Dedication

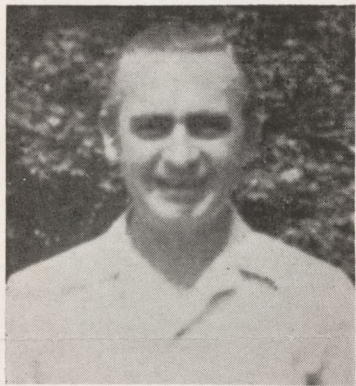

Since it was exactly thirty years ago that St. James won its first City Basketball Championship and the Track Team did so outstandingly, we, as a tribute to their great achievements and as a background to Loughlin's most current successes, present this special feature.

We include just some of the great names which have made St. James and, by their example, Loughlin great. So as our appreciation to these greats we dedicate this page to them as representatives of their fellow Alumni; Robert and George Loehfelm for Track, Arthur Tully for Basketball and Mr. Crowe for the faculty.

Voice Of '31 Champions

Once again Loughlin has stepped into the limelight as a basketball power. The talk of the school is the 1961 CHSAA champions. Thirty-one years had passed since we had captured the coveted award. Few Loughlinites, however, know very much of this team.

Who set the pace for the Lion cagers of yesteryear? A five-foot nine-inch, one hundred and fifty-five pound backcourt whiz. Art Tully. Termed as one of the greatest "little men" ever to play for the "Purple and Gold" Mr. Tully was a pacemaker and leader for the 1930-31 champions.

Mr. Arthur Tully—member of the St. James' CHSAA basketball champions in 1930-31, the season he was on the All-Scholastic team.

Three Years on Varsity

Mr. Tully came to Loughlin in 1927, and as a freshman displayed such great potential that he was graduated to the varsity in his sophomore year. Mr. Tully paced the Lions to victory against such powers of the day as St. John's Prep and St. Augustine's. During his third year Mr. Tully steadily improved his game. Then in the fourth year he rose to the peak of his high school career in leading the Lions to a victory of 19-18 over St. Francis Prep in the finals of the city playoffs.

Art earned All-Scholastic, equivalent to today's All-City, honors in his senior year to cap off a brilliant three-year stint of varsity basketball.

Three Letter Man

Aside from being a two-year veteran letterman in basketball, Mr. Tully succeeded in securing letters in baseball and track. In the course of his baseball career he became a notable figure on the diamond. His eager willingness and undying zeal to fight for the "Purple and Gold" prompted his teammates to choose him as captain of the 1931 squad. While holding this position, Mr. Tully did much to uplift the morale of his fellow players and aided them in garnering victory against major opponents of the era.

Loehfelm Brothers Speak

Although Bishop Loughlin Memorial High School was founded in 1933, a majority of Loughlin's traditions and organizations date back to the period between 1927 to 1932 when the Christian Brothers were still conducting classes at St. James Academy on Jay Street. We may embody "the inauguration of Loughlin tradition" into the personages of Robert and George Loehfelm. Being a part of the St. James student body during those memorable years, they are thus a part of Loughlin tradition.

Bob Loehfelm Speaks

Both Robert and George Loehfelm, twin brothers, attended St. James Academy from 1926-29. While at St. James, Robert Loehfelm was a member of the track team, served as a judge in the Student Council, and was a member of the first French Club. George Loehfelm was captain of the first track team, served as Chief Justice on the Student Council, and was a member of the first Dramatic Society. Between the Loehfelm duo, their connections with the beginnings of so many of Loughlin's organizations make them as big a portion of Loughlin tradition today as of the past.

During this time the students of St. James were given a combined academic and commercial course. In addition to the mathematics, languages, sciences, and religion, the students also took typing shorthand, accounting, and business math.

First Chief Justice

Initiated by Brother Raymond, the Student Council was the chief student organization at St. James. The Council consisted of five representatives from every class in the school. These students had to be outstanding both scholastically and extracurricularly. Both Robert and George Loehfelm served as judges on the Student Court. George Loehfelm served as Chief Justice and President of the Student Council.

Our Essence

*"Oh, where have Loughlin's glories gone;
Where are the memories past?
Oh, where have Loughlin's glories gone;
Have they withered and faded so fast?"*

*Those were the words of the sad alumnus
Who saw not one face the same,
As those that were here when that same alumnus
Once revelled in our fame.*

*But then a young freshman spoke out thus;
"Why, sir, on you a shame!
Over changing of faces you make a fuss
While the spirit's been always the same.
Just come to a game or a meet with us—
You'll see if the Lion's tame!!!"*

Mr. Crowe Looks Back

At Loughlin we are grateful to have a faculty member so devoted as Mr. Crowe. He began his teaching career when Loughlin was still St. James. When St. James became Loughlin, Mr. Crowe also became a member of its faculty.

The following reflects Mr. Crowe's feeling as a faculty member of St. James-Loughlin during his long career as a teacher: "The prevailing 'New Frontier,' so remarkably regenerated our national life, for providential preservation, is acutely akin to the verge that presently characterized the effervescent spirit of loyalty of Loughlin students, alumni and faculty.

It is but the happy crucible of the Christian Brothers, spiritual sons of Saint John Baptist De La Salle, 'Universal Patron of Teachers,' so styled by Pope Pius XII. Their constant contribution to Christian culture, has them acclaimed, 'Builders of Boys, Makers of Men.'

ished under Divine Providence to perpetuate the two-fold program of scholarship and vocations. The ultimate effect is the complete Catholic citizen, through the harmonious development of body, mind, and soul.

We, of the laity in Brooklyn, the 'City of Churches,' are indeed, most fortunate in this Christopher Crusade, to be privileged to have as Shepherd, a loyal Christian Brothers' Boy, our illustrious Bishop, His Eminence Most Reverend Bryan J. McEntegart, D.D."

Robert Loehfelm

George Loehfelm, M.D.

In October of 1927 the first issue of the Jamesonian rolled off the presses. Prior to this date a publication called "The Mentor" had been St. James' first school newspaper. The title of "Father of the Jamesonian" may be given to Brother A. James, who was the first Jamesonian moderator. Brother James established the Jamesonian name plate, which is the sole original character that has remained. The privilege of writing the first editorial and introduction to the students was given to George Loehfelm.

George Loehfelm Speaks

Bishop Loughlin and greatness have become synonymous in the field of High School Track. For this achievement we have been dubbed "the Notre Dame of High School Track." Many trophies have been garnered by our racing experts in thirty-three year history. Amid all our triumph and glory perhaps one person and one award stand out among all the others, the first, the most difficult to attain and worthy of the greatest honor and prestige. We owe our start to a distinguished personality of the St. James Family, Dr. George Loehfelm. While with us, Mr. Loehfelm succeeded in his every endeavor.

Track Team Originates

George Eastman first came to Loughlin in 1934 after coaching St. James since 1927. In 1927, he was a fresh recruit from Georgetown University and a member of the world's championship relay team. He started his team with only seven men. The Loehfelm twins were the predominant force of the team.

The first of the many High School Track successes came to St. James in 1928. George Loehfelm wheeled his relay partners to a third place finish in the Eastern Division Championships at the 168th St. Armory. This was the start of the fabulous future of St. James — Bishop Loughlin.

Mr. Loehfelm championed the team as captain of the '28 and '29 squad.

Track soared and he obtained his greatest personal triumph in the fall of the indoor season of 1928. He went on to become the half-mile Catholic School boy champ. Also at the Catholic High School Indoor Championships of that year Jack Gunn, another member of the '29 class, captured the quarter mile championship.

The esteemed Penn Relays were the next site of success for the Lions. George Loehfelm again secured honors. The one-mile relay team fought their way to victory. These were the greatest triumphs for the St. James clan.

The teams of these early years acted as forerunners for the teams of the "Golden Years". In scope the '28 and '29 teams compared poorer than the '30, '31 Championship Teams. Jack Deedie was the school-boy National champion for the relay in '31.

Throughout Dr. Loehfelm's high school career, which consisted of only two years, he amassed fifteen medals.

Cagers Capture City Crown

by MATT D'AMICO

Bishop Loughlin's basketball team proved that the experts are not always right as they recorded the first city title in the school's history. The Lions were as much as ten point underdogs as they fought to the city crown. Led by team captain Len Schnappauf, Larry Lembo, Gene Parchinski, and Art Klink, the Lions were able to defeat such city powers as Mount St. Michael's, Archbishop Molloy and All Hallows. Although Bishop Loughlin itself had never won the city title, its predecessor, St. James Academy, took the championship in 1931.

Stop Mounties

After winning the final three games of the season, the Lions took their 19-2 record up to Fordham's Rose Hill Gym in quest of the city title. In their first game, the "five" met a strong team from St. Michael's High School in the Bronx. The game was the opening presentation of a quadruple-header on February 22.

The taller Lions completely out-manuevered the smaller Mounties under the boards and went into the half-time break on the long end of a 34-24 count. But the Mounties continued to fight back. However, the cagers were too powerful as they belted the Mounties 74-61. Larry Lembo led all the scorers with 28 points as he proved himself deadly with long jump shots. Lenny Schnappauf pierced the nets for 22 points as his drives proved unstoppable to the Mounties.

Enter Semi-Finals

After the win over Mount St. Michael, Loughlin returned on Sunday, February 26, to Fordham's Gym for the semi-final game against Archbishop Molloy High School. Molloy had gained its semi-final berth with an impressive 74-61 victory over La Salle Academy of Second Street. The game was filled with suspense from the first tap to the last basket.

Gene Parchinski scored the first basket of the day with a long jump shot. But Ralph Schultz countered for Molloy. Then the Lions shot ahead and took the lead at 10-5 with two minutes remaining in the period. This five point margin turned out to be the biggest lead held by either team during the day. By the end of the period the "Purple and Gold" had only hit the hoop for one more basket, while the Briarwood cagers picked up five points to shave the Lion lead to 12-10.

In the second half it was all Lawrence and Schnappauf. Lawrence scored all of his team's points after the four minute mark of the third quarter. With some two and a half minutes remaining in the game the Lions held a 41-40 lead. Then Len Schnappauf drove in for a lay-up and scored, being fouled in the process. He sank the free throw and Loughlin now led 44-40.

Molloy brought the ball up-court and missed its shot. Schnappauf brought the ball back and Loughlin started to freeze it. Then Ralph Schultz tied up Schnappauf and was able to take the ball and throw it upcourt to Lawrence for an easy two points. Billy scored later and Loughlin had the ball with a minute left and the score tied 44-44. Len Schnappauf showed Molloy how to dribble as he and Kev Lyall dazzled the Stanners. Schnappauf forced the Molloy defender to foul him as he shot. Lenny stepped up to the line and sank the two clutch shots with only seven seconds left.

Parchinski Saves Day

Molloy called a time out to talk over its strategy. The Stanners took the ball inbounds and looked for Lawrence. Ferrigno passed upcourt to Billy who took two steps and let go with a jump shot. The ball went in to tie the game at 46-46 at the end of regulation time, and a three minute overtime ensued.

Molloy won the tap and froze the ball for half of the allotted time. They kept looking to break Lawrence into the clear. Then with a minute and twenty seconds left, Lawrence drove in towards the basket. But, from out of nowhere, Gene Parchinski moved over to block the shot and tap it towards Schnappauf. However, the Lions could not manage to get off a good shot in the remaining time and forced the game into a second overtime.

Sudden Death Victory

The second overtime was a sudden death period. Whichever team scored two points first would be declared the victor. The Lions won the tap and Larry Lembo tried to lay one up. He missed the shot, went into Lawrence and fell hard, hitting his head against the floor. He was taken to Fordham Hospital where X-rays were taken and proved negative. The doctor analyzed it as a slight concussion and a severely sprained neck.

Lawrence was given a free throw but he missed it. Schnappauf grabbed the rebound and passed upcourt to Parchinski who took a jump shot and missed, but again Schnappauf took down the rebound and threw up the shot. Parchinski and Molloy's Matty Link wound up in a jump ball over the rebound. Parchinski tapped it to Willie Wolters who hot and missed. However, Wolters tipped in the rebound to win the game and put Loughlin in the final round. After scoring, Wolters stood under the basket in a daze. He just couldn't believe he had won the game.

Len Schnappauf wound up with 22 points to lead the Lions, while Lembo and Parchinski each had 7 points. But both proved invaluable under the boards. Bill Lawrence was high scorer for Molloy with 34 points.

Face All Hallows

The win over Molloy set up the March 5 meeting with the Bronx champions from All Hallows at Fordham. The Lions remembered a similar occasion at the annual Iona Tourney last year when they reached the finals. They were then outscored by a team from All Hallows.

Now it was the Lions who did the scoring, especially Art Klink and Larry Lembo. The Lions were down 7-3 at the very beginning, but Larry Lembo put up seven straight points and from there on the Lions were never to be headed. They took a 35-25 lead at half-time. Art Klink hit for 20 points with nice hooks and jump shots. Len Schnappauf played his usually brilliant game. Although he scored only 11 points, he sparkled with his assists. Gene Parchinski rounded out the double figure men with 10 points and 13 rebounds.

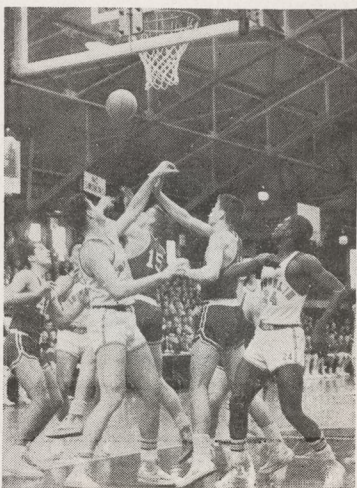

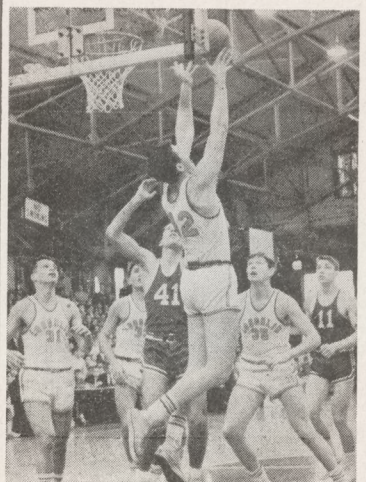

Conquer Gaels in Finals

The Gaels just couldn't get started. Right from the beginning they missed their 6'3" Junior Alex McAuley who could have helped a lot off the boards, if it were not for a sprained ankle suffered in practice.

The Gaels managed to cut the Lion margin to seven points but could do no better. At the end, the Lions wound up on the big end of a 62-50 decision.

All-Stars Picked

Before the All Hallows game various coaches and players were honored by the CHSAA for their achievements. Among these was Len Schnappauf who received a watch for making the All-City Five and Larry Lembo who received a plaque for making the All-Division II team. In addition, the varsity coach, Mr. Ralph Tedesco, was selected as Catholic High School "Coach of the Year" by both the Daily News and the Brooklyn Tablet.

LOUDSPEAKER

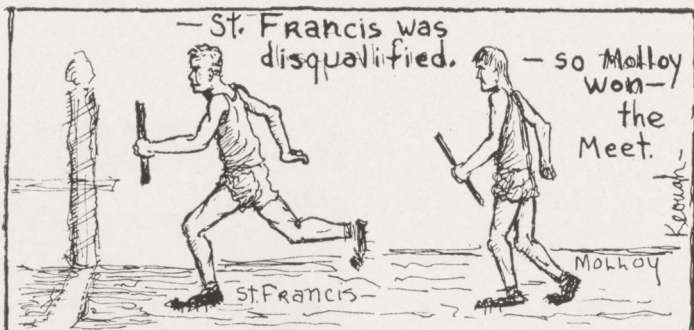

JOE DE LESSIO

First of all, congratulations from the Sports Desk to:

Mr. Miles, on his fine coaching job this past season and on being named Coach of the Year.

Mr. Tedesco, for giving Loughlin its first City Championship, and on being named Coach of the year by the Daily News and the Tablet.

The members of the Track and Basketball Teams for their great spirit and hard work.

One of the most unsung heroes of the Basketball Playoffs was Gene Parchinski. His aggressiveness under the boards certainly helped to keep the ball in Loughlin's hands . . . Loughlin has a new moniker among the "big newspaper" sports writers—we're now called the Bishops . . . if St. Francis runner, Kevin Grady, hadn't been disqualified in the 880 yard run, the Molloy boardman wouldn't have won, and Loughlin would have been City Champs for the 23rd time in 34 tries . . . at least Mr. Miles can say that we weren't beaten by a team with better men, but rather by a team with better luck . . . Tyrone Pannell's best height in the high jump as a junior was 6 feet. Bob Riley, now a junior here, has already cleared 6'2" in competition . . . Ken Coniglio has beaten Ty's hurdles record many times already.

When you stop to consider that practically every other Catholic high school with whom Loughlin competes, employs the practice of giving full scholarships to promising athletes, Loughlin has done extremely well despite the fact that it has to draw its champions only from those students who were able to get in entirely on their scholastic ability.

Loughlin Mermen Sink Uniondale and W. Islip

Lion aquamen try their hand at Water Polo in preparation for their upcoming junior championship match at Yale University.

Loughlin's Varsity Aquamen added two more wins to their string by defeating West Islip, 44-42, and Uniondale, 45-41.

Against West Islip the Lions copped first place five times under Mike Quaid, Tony Pagano, Chris Jones (twice) and Ray Kerwick, while the free-style relay team, including Dan Palese, Kerwick, Quaid and Pagano, also garnered the top slot. Tony Pagano, a senior, and Chris Jones, a freshman, broke the existing pool records with times of 1:05.5 in the 100 yd. butterfly, and 2:33.4 in the individual medley, respectively.

Lions Dethrone Champs

Next to fall was Uniondale, Long Island Champions. Undeclared during the season, they were beaten in their last outing, with the Lions, by the score of 45-41. During the meet, Loughlin captured first place honors six times under Quaid (twice), Pagano, Kerwick, and Jones (twice), while Pagano again broke the pool record in the 100 yd. butterfly with a time of 1:05.5.

The tracksters gained a third gold medal in the 280 yd. Dash when Kieran Moran won the event in a time of 30.7 seconds. Student Spotlight: Scholarship Club

STEVE CONNORS

A college degree is more and more becoming the key which opens the door of success in whatever field of endeavor the graduate intends to enter. However, with each passing year a college education grows increasingly difficult to obtain, due chiefly to the swelling number of college applicants and steadily rising tuitions.

To combat these obstacles and to place the benefits of four years of college within the reach of every Loughlinite are the primary aims of the Scholarship Club. Under the experienced supervision of Brother C. Anselm, the club has steadily grown and expanded, and its efficiency may easily be measured by considering the phenomenal number of scholarships already won by the present Senior Class. These consist largely of New York State Regents Scholarships, both regular and science, and grants from such colleges as Manhattan, St. Francis, and St. John's.

When questioned as to the most important work of the Scholarship Club, Brother Anselm stated that it was the investigation of all possible scholarship sources with a view towards providing as many students as possible with financial aid. Any student who thinks he is eligible for a particular scholarship is urged to consult Brother Anselm.

College to Contribute Scholarship to School

Brother Lambeth Thomas, F.S.C., President of Christian Brothers' College, presented the 1961 senior class of Loughlin with a full four year scholarship to that institute.

Brother Thomas Visits School

Brother Thomas visited Loughlin during January with an assortment of color slides describing the beautiful modern campus at Memphis. According to Brother A. James, Brother Thomas was so impressed by our school and the conduct of the students during that assembly that he decided to present the school with a four year scholarship. This award will be granted by Brother Basil Stephen.

As of present no one has received the scholarship. Brother Stephen said that the recipient will definitely be a boy who has scholastic ability, participates in extra-curricular activities and is financially in need. Brother James also added that the receiver must definitely be a boy who will give Memphis some extra-curricular help.

This is the only scholarship offered by the Christian Brothers' College in the entire United States.

Large Number of Applications

Of the tens of thousands taking this test over twenty-one hundred applied for admission into Loughlin. However, only four hundred and fifty will be accepted.

In regard to the incoming freshmen, Brother Stephen, the principal, had this to say, "We are very pleased with last year's freshman class, and we hope the incoming freshmen will be as good."

Heart of the Matter

RICH CRIMMINS

Fully aware of the harm incurred by the State's support of a particular church or religious sect, our forefathers wisely made provisions for the separation of these two societies when they drew up the foundation of our democratic system.

As time has progressed, there has been considerable debate and uncertainty as to what precisely constitutes a violation of this arrangement. Perhaps at present, the most frequently discussed aspect of the Church-State relationship deals with the question of state aid to private schools. Since the majority of private schools are maintained by the Catholic Church, she is directly concerned with the issue.

RICH CRIMMINS

Those taking a negative stand in the controversy can be classified into two general groups. Some are of the opinion that aid to church-operated schools would in truth be a transgression of the conditions stipulated by the Constitution. However, they are confident that the Church's only motive is to secure what she believes is a "fair shake" for her flock. A smaller number of more radical opponents view her sentiments as a desire of the hierarchy to obtain pre-eminence over the remaining denominations.

The argument of the Church, as expressed by her prelates, is centered predominately on one point. She considers it highly unjust that Catholics, who comprise more than thirty per cent of our nation's population, should be compelled to support through taxes public schools, and at the same time, to contribute towards the care and development of their own private schools.

Many possible solutions to the problem have been suggested. Popular among them is the proposal that aid for education be granted directly to each individual. This would satisfy the Church's desired end without seriously imposing the threat of an illegality. Such a plan has been recommended by the President for all college students, but he has refused to endorse it for all attending elementary or secondary schools.

From all indications, we can plainly see that this situation is an extremely delicate one. An agreement completely acceptable to both sides may not be reached for some time to come. A path must first be paved, by abolishing undue suspicion on both sides of the other's aims. All must realize that the Catholic Church is not in search of a higher status in America. All must realize also that the majority of those who disagree with the Church in this matter are not intentionally trying to deprive her members of something that is owed them.

The scholarship stipends which can be gained are based upon financial need. The minimum award is one hundred dollars, and the maximum is fifteen hundred dollars. This stipend may be increased at any time if the student's financial situation changes during the four year term of the scholarship.

The scores of those who took the test will be reported to the school before the end of the term. In addition to being a means of obtaining scholarships, these tests can also aid the students in decisions about college attendance, field of study, and their academic weaknesses.

VOICE OF LOUGHLIN

Q. In order to maintain our athletic prowess, do you think Loughlin should grant sports scholarships?

A. I think financial aid should be given to a boy if he qualifies for Loughlin scholastically and is unable to meet the fees necessary to attend.

Mr. Ralph Tedesco

A. No. Loughlin has developed its great teams through a general program of hard-work and a sense of its athletes striving to do something for the school rather than the school owing them an education and training. I think this makes for true achievement.

Arthur Klink 4B-117

A. No. We have 500 freshmen coming in each year. As long as we have fine coaches, interested moderators, and the support of the student body, we'll always be able to field a representative team in any sport. It means, though, that we have to work twice as hard to make our athletes measure up to those who are so gifted as to win athletic scholarships to other schools.

Brother A. Michael

A. No. Because I don't think Loughlin will be able to maintain their status as a top-notch scholastic school.

Jack Crispi 3B-319

A. Yes, providing that the boy is capable of completing his academic course of study.

John DiBiase 3B-316

A. No. We have not had to do this in Loughlin's 28 years and we always had championship teams. Why start now?

Phil Mercorella 4B-108
